Excerpt from Talks on Sculpture

Schoolroom decoration - the creation of a beautiful environment which will silently cooperate with the voice of the teacher in the mental, aesthetic and spiritual development of the children - is a movement of ever-increasing importance, and one to which Miss Gertrude L. Brinkhaus has given her attention since the beginning of the year one thousand nine hundred five. At the close of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, where Miss Brinkhaus served as assistant director for the Massachusetts Educational Exhibits, she found herself possessed with the idea of helping along schools and teachers toward the attainment of schoolroom decoration by presenting to them the beautiful in sculpture - the masterpieces of the world. It was one thing to wish to do and another to hit upon a plan of doing, but suddenly there came to her the thought that newspapers must give collections of sculpture and that the schools to receive the gifts should be decided upon by means of a voting contest. The publisher of the Boston Herald was first approached, and the plan met with his hearty approval and support. An interesting contest was the result. Next, the originator was invited to Washington, D. C., by the Evening Star, and in June of this year closed a period of work, decorating some of the schools of Chicago through the Chicago Record-Herald. Through the generosity of the Times-Dispatch, the end of this year will see many schools in Richmond, Va., beautified by this same plan, under Miss Brinkhaus's personal direction. In pursuing her work, Miss Brinkhaus has always used sculpture, not because she does not believe in pictures, but because she believes in teaching the child the beautiful in form. Commenting on the plan, one of the members of the Chicago Board of Education, a lady who had made a special study of art in the best schools of Europe, said: The presence and the study of sculpture in the schools, not only develops the art
